

The EIP Distinguished Alumni Award

Mina Al Hashimi
BS Accounting '23 | MS '24

Mina Al Hashimi, BS Accounting '23, MS '24, is a proud alumna of George Mason University's Early Identification Program (EIP), which played a formative role in her academic, professional, and leadership development. As a first-generation college graduate, Al Hashimi credits EIP with providing early exposure to higher education, professional readiness, and a supportive community that empowered her to pursue long-term success with confidence.

Al Hashimi currently works in technology risk assurance at EY. She supports complex organizations by assessing technology and business process risks, strengthening internal controls, and contributing to high-quality, audit-ready deliverables in fast-paced environments. She is recognized for her attention to detail, accountability, and collaborative approach to problem-solving.

In addition to her professional work, Al Hashimi is deeply engaged in leadership and service. She is actively involved with the Association of Latino Professionals for America and the Latino Professional Network, where she contributes to student affairs, leadership development, and alumni engagement initiatives. Through this work, she helps foster inclusive spaces that support mentorship, access, and professional growth for students and early-career professionals from historically underrepresented backgrounds.

Celebration of Distinction

HONORING EXCELLENCE
AT GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY

Al Hashimi remains committed to giving back to the communities and programs that shaped her journey. Her dedication to leadership, service, and student advocacy exemplifies EIP's mission.